and from being positively threatening became simply morose.

"Why this moroseness should have sharpened into menace after an unexpected visit from his once dear but long estranged companion in arms, his daughter, even after long years of constant brooding upon this subject, dares not decide. If she could she might be happier.

"The general was a kindly man, sharp of face and of a tall, thin figure, but with an eye to draw children and make them happy with a look. But his effect on the father was different. From the moment the two met in the great hall below the temple of the host betrayed how little he welcomed this guest. He did not fall in courtesy—the Moores are always gentlemen—but it was a hard courtesy, which cut while it flattered. The two children, shrinking from its edge without knowing what it was that hurt them, slunk to covert and from behind the two pillars which marked the entrance to the library watched the two men as they walked up and down the halls discussing the merits of this and that detail of the freshly furnished mansion. These two innocent but eager spies, whom fear rather than curiosity held in hiding, even caught some of the sentences which passed between the two called friends, and though these necessarily conveyed but little meaning to their childish minds, the words forming them were never forgotten, as witness these phrases confided to me by Miss Callista twenty-five years afterward.

"You have much that most men lack," remarked the general as they paused to admire some little specimen of Italian art which had been lately received from Genoa. "You have money—too much money, Moore, by an amount I might easily name—a home which some might call palatial, a lovely if not altogether healthy wife, two fine children and all the honor which a man in a commonwealth like this should ask for. Drop politics."

"Politics is my life," was the cold response. "To bid me drop it is to bid me commit suicide." Then, as an afterthought to which a moment of intervening silence added emphasis, "And for you to drive me from it would be an act little short of murder."

"Justice dealt upon a traitor is not murder," was the stern and unyielding reply. "By one black deed of treacherous barter and sale, of which none of your countrymen is cognizant but myself, you have forfeited the confidence of this government. Were I, who so unhapily surprised your secret, to allow you to continue in your present place of trust, I myself would be a traitor to the republic for which I have fought and for which I am ready to die. That is why I ask you to resign before."

"The two children did not catch the threat latent in that last word, but they realized the force of it from their father's look and were surprised when he quietly said:

"You declare yourself to be the only man on the commission who is acquainted with the facts you are pleased to style traitorous."

"The general's lips curled. 'Have I not said?' he asked.

"Something in this stern honesty seemed to affect the father. His face turned away, and it was the other's voice which was next heard. A change had taken place in it, and it sounded almost mellow as it gave form to these words:

"Alpheus, we have been friends. You shall have two weeks in which to think over my demand and decide. If at the end of that time you have not returned to domestic life, you may expect another visit from me which cannot fail of consequences. You know my temper when roused. Do not force me into a position which will cause us both endless regret."

"Perhaps the father answered; perhaps he did not. The children heard nothing further, but they witnessed the gloom with which he rode away to the White House the next day. Remembering the general's threat, they imagined in their childish hearts that their father had gone to give up his post and newly acquired honors. But he returned at night without having done so and from that day on carried his head higher and showed himself more and more the master both at home and abroad.

"But he was restless, very restless, and, possibly to allay a great mental uneasiness, he began having some changes made in the house, changes which occupied much of his time and with which he never seemed satisfied. Men working one day were dismissed the next and others called in until this work and everything else was interrupted by the return of his late unwelcome guest, who kept his appointment to a day.

"At this point in her narrative Miss Callista's voice fell and the flame, which had thrown a partial light on her countenance, died down until I could but faintly discern the secretly inquiring look with which she watched as she went on to say:

"Reuben and I—Reuben was her brother—were posted in the dark corner under the stairs when my father met the general at the door. We had expected to hear high words or some explosion of bitter feeling between them, and hardly knew whether to be glad or sorry when our father welcomed his guest with the same elaborate bow we once saw him make to the president in the grounds of the White House. Nor could we understand what followed. We were summoned in to supper. Our mother was there, a great event in those days, and toasts were drunk, and our father proposed one to the general's health. This Reuben thought was an open signal of peace and turned upon me his great round eyes in surprise, but I, who was old enough to notice that this toast was not responded to and that the general did not even touch his lips to the glass he had lifted in compliment to our mother, who had lifted hers, felt that there was something terrifying rather than reassuring in this attempt at good fellowship. Though unable to reason over it at the time, I have often done so since, and my father's attitude and look as he faced this strange guest has dwelt so persistently in my memory that scarcely a year passes without the scene coming up in my dreams with its accompanying emotions of fear and perplexity. For—perhaps you know the story—that hour was the general's last. He died before leaving the house—died in that same dark library concerning which you have asked so many questions.

SPEAKERSHIP GOSSIP

Interesting Situation Will Confront the Coming Legislature.

Indianapolis, Nov. 28.—The manner in which the speakership of the next house is being allowed to go almost by default to Sidney Cantwell is one of the unusual features of the political situation just at present. Ordinarily there is a hard fight for this position and in a year when there is a United States senator to be chosen the fight usually is more bitter than in other years. This time, however, with two senators to elect there is apparently little intention on the part of the other legislators to contest for the position with Mr. Cantwell. While the question is not settled definitely by any means, since there is still plenty of time for other candidates to come out, there seems to be a general disposition to give Cantwell the place and unless organized opposition develops soon it will be too late to head him off. The fact that Senator Fairbanks' position is at stake seems to be the reason for the unusual willingness of candidates to keep in the background. Usually the vote on the speaker is taken as a test vote as to how the members stand on the senatorship. This year, however, the lack of candidates seems to be due to the senatorial battle. Each candidate for the high position seems unwilling to have a test vote taken, and for that reason the friends of all are being kept in the background in the speakership race.

Indianapolis people are divided in sentiment as to the advantage of the proposed military prison to be established at Ft. Benjamin Harrison in connection with the new army post which is being laid out just north of the city. While some citizens believe that the prison will be an advantage in that it will necessarily mean the expenditure of more government money in this community every year the majority of the people do not take kindly to the idea. There were some people who even opposed the idea of the post being placed near Indianapolis. Their ranks have been swelled by the opponents of the prison scheme. While it does not seem likely that the feeling of the people here will have much weight either way with the Washington authorities, many people have serious objections to the establishment of a prison in this community. In their disgust at the announcement that a prison is to be located on the post site they are now going to the length of criticising the whole post plan. These people are in the minority, still it is safe to say that had it been known a prison was contemplated in connection with the post fewer people who have taken part in the fight made to secure the post.

An old ordinance of the city of Indianapolis which has long been forgotten has been resurrected and may be again enforced as the result of the coroner's investigation of the death of little Lorena Bowley, who was killed by falling through an elevator shaft in the Charles Mayer store several weeks ago. This ordinance provides that an elevator conductor must close the door of the car before starting. The coroner finds that the death of the little girl was brought about through the failure of the conductor to obey this law. The enforcement of the ordinance has been left largely to the management of buildings running elevators, it being thought that their interest in avoiding accidents would cause them to see that their conductors obey the rule. Now that it has been demonstrated that elevator conductors do not always observe the rule the police may take a hand to see that the law is obeyed.

Nearing the End.

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—At a joint meeting of the executive committee and the committee on ceremonies of the Louisiana Purchase exposition a preliminary program was arranged for the closing day of the world's fair, Dec. 1. Only a tentative program has been arranged for the night, but the gates will remain open until 12 midnight and the illumination of the grounds will continue until that hour.

Citizens Fire on Cracksmen.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 28.—Two bank burglars were fired on by citizens of Wabash at an early hour this morning. The burglars had exploded one charge of dynamite on the heavy steel safe in the Farmers State bank and were preparing to explode another when the citizens, who had been awakened, opened fire upon them. The burglars returned the fire while getting away. They came towards this city.

Fatal Runaway Accident.

Seymour, Ind., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Herman H. Holtman, fifty-five, the wife of a well-to-do farmer living four miles south of this city, was killed in a runaway accident.

FALL OF FORTRESS

Will Not End the War In the Far East, Says Premier Katsura.

RUSSIA'S NEW PLANS

Capture of Port Arthur Would Lead to Development of Other Undertakings to Push the War.

On High Authority It Is Stated That Japan Will Sacrifice Last Man and Last Cent.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Discussing the war and the domestic, financial and political conditions of Japanese on the eve of the assembling of the diet, Premier Katsura said: "To insure peace in the Orient and to safeguard our national existence is the aim and purpose of our empire, and no sacrifice shall be too great for successfully effecting this purpose. Russia, besides violating her pledges in Manchuria, crowned her overbearing and aggressive policy by extending her arms to the Korean peninsula.

"We were highly solicitous to preserve peace, but had no alternative except that of war, which was forced upon us. Throughout the negotiations Russia showed a haughty and overbearing attitude, which, as has latterly been shown, was inadequately supported by military strength. Russia allowed herself to be deceived and slighted our empire, for she never believed that Japan would draw the sword of war. Then, after suffering repeated defeats on land and on sea, Russia perceived the mistake she had made, and, having discovered the seriousness of the situation, began to take adequate measures.

"The case was different with us. We are alive to the seriousness of the situation and were prepared for exigencies.

"Russia must see that the war cannot be concluded by the issues of a few battles. With us the war means life or death, and not one of our 45,000,000 brethren remains ignorant of the vital issue at stake. We are prepared to sacrifice our last man and our last cent for this war.

"The delay in the decisive result of our siege at Port Arthur gives Russia hope of being able to relieve the garrison, and for this purpose she resolved to empty her naval defense at home while on land corps after corps has been mobilized and sent eastward.

"The military and naval plans of Russia seem to center in the relief of Port Arthur and Gen. Kuropatkin's southward advance, which resulted in his serious defeat, had the relief of the garrison as its sole object. The Russian emperor's instructions to Kuropatkin not to retire beyond Mukden were designed to raise the gloom that had been hanging over the people of Russia since the defeat of Russian arms at the battle of Liaoyang, and Kuropatkin assumed the aggressive perhaps against his own judgment.

"Everything seems to hinge on the fall of Port Arthur, but I do not console myself with the thought that the capture of that ill-fated fortress will bring the war to a speedy termination. Its capture will give occasion for renewed plans for warfare by Russia and I am watching keenly for such new developments."

Steelers Resist Effectually.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Imperial headquarters has just issued the following announcement: "The works for our attack having been nearly completed against Shantung mountain (Port Arthur) and the forts lying eastward therefrom, a general assault was made on the afternoon of Nov. 26, but owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance our object has not yet been accomplished. The fighting still continues."

Soldiers Not Much Interested.

Mukden, Nov. 28.—The war has reached such a phase that the interest in small skirmishes is very slight. Every one has been looking for a big battle, but though reinforcements continue to arrive, and both sides continue to entrench, a general engagement apparently is as far as ever. No one now discusses the subject. A number of commanders are drilling their men as in time of peace.

Japs Were Successful.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Manchurian headquarters, reporting today, says: "From the night of Nov. 2 until the morning of Nov. 26 a body of the enemy's infantry attacked our troops in the vicinity of Sinsungun and Shaoan, but the attack was completely repulsed by us. The enemy's artillery, posted to the east of Ta mountain, vigorously shelled the vicinities of Machuantzu and Kuchiatzu from 2 o'clock in the afternoon of Nov. 26, but we suffered no damage. On the right bank of the Han river a body of the enemy's cavalry attacked Manchies on Nov. 25, but was driven back by our force. On Nov. 24 the enemy set fire to Shangtsaimen and most of the village was burned."

The Attempt Failed.
St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—The Japanese attempt to turn Gen. Rennenkampf's left has failed, according to a dispatch from Mukden which has been received here.

No News at Che Foo.
Che Foo, Nov. 28.—Che Foo is today without news regarding the progress of the operations at Port Arthur.

SUNDAY IN ST. LOUIS

The President's Party Doesn't Find Time Dragging.

St. Louis, Nov. 28.—In sharp contrast with the strenuous experience of Saturday, when a hurricane effort was made to view the Louisiana Purchase exposition in nine hours, President Roosevelt's time Sunday was passed quietly and uneventfully.

Rest and recuperation from the fatigue of Saturday constituted almost the sole idea of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and their immediate party. After a late family breakfast at the residence of William H. Thompson, the treasurer of the exposition company, who entertained the president, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Secretary and Mrs. Loeb and Dr. P. M. Rixey, the president and party attended divine services at 11 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian church. It was known that the president would attend the morning service at this church and long before the hour of his arrival the streets in that vicinity were banked with people almost from curb to curb.

The service was conducted and the sermon preached by the Rev. S. J. Nicolls, pastor of the church. The subject of Dr. Nicolls' discourse was "the glory of the Kingdom of God and the progress it is making in the world." No reference was made by the pastor in his sermon to the president and only the usual supplication was offered in his final prayer for the safety and wise conduct of the president of the United States.

After luncheon the president and Mrs. Roosevelt received informally a few personal friends who called merely to pay their respects. At 4 o'clock the party went for an extended drive. The drive extended through Forest Park and over the residential boulevards in that section of the city. It was 5:30 o'clock when the president returned to Mr. Thompson's residence. As soon as the president was recognized in his carriage people followed him in vehicles of all sorts, principally automobiles. On his return trip the president was followed by a procession containing more than 200 vehicles. Last night the presidential party was entertained at dinner at 8 o'clock by Mr. and Mrs. Francis at their residence. After the dinner the president and party returned to the Thompson residence. At 10:15 they left in carriages for the exposition grounds, where their special train had been held awaiting their departure for Washington, and at midnight the train took its departure for the East.

Socialist Riot in Vienna.

Vienna, Nov. 28.—Socialists to the number of 10,000 made a demonstration Sunday against the government before the residence of Premier Von Koerber and other ministers, and then tried to invade the town hall. A strong force of gendarmes dispersed the crowd. Several persons were injured, including five policemen. Many arrests were made.

Porte Takes Notice.

Constantinople, Nov. 28.—The Porte has issued orders to the authorities at Trebizond to cease interference with the sale of American bibles and to restore those that have been seized.

ONLY A SYMPTOM

Of the Disease From Which Russia Suffers Was the Zemstvo Meeting.

INTERNAL SITUATION

Many Complications Are Present, But the Future at Home and Abroad Is Tied Up in the War.

Eminent Russian Statesman Presents the Government View of the Present Involved State.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—One of the most commanding figures and far-seeing statesmen of the empire, whose opinion is of the highest value, but who has declined to permit the use of his name, has expressed the distinct conviction that nothing in the nature of a radical change in the existing order of things would result from the Zemstvo congress. This statesman, it can be stated, is a firm believer in the principle of autocracy as the best system of government for the realization of the dreams of the Slav race, and what he believes to be the great destiny of the most populous nation and vastest empire in the world, but he has himself, in fact, favored a liberal policy and is now too practical minded not to appreciate the factors which threaten the present regime. Still he does not believe that anything like a crisis now confronts the government. In his opinion everything depends on the war.

"The war," the statesman said, "is a big interrogation point for Russia. Her future at home and abroad is involved in the issue. The internal situation is very complicated. The action of the Zemstvo representatives is a symptom of the disease from which Russia suffers, but these few men have not necessarily made a correct diagnosis or offered the true remedy. Theirs is in no sense the verdict of the people, but only the opinion of a class. The real representatives of the Russian people could they assemble and could they argue would probably enunciate a program quite as repugnant to the Zemstvoists as to the supporters of the present program. The men who assembled here last week do not propose true representative government. They would really substitute the rule of class autocracy to imperial authority. The Russian peasant, who represents four-fifths of the population, with his inborn sense of devotion to the emperor, would doubtless prefer the latter to the former. Were I a minister and working for the good of the country I should prefer to obey the mandates of the emperor to those of a bogus parliament professing to speak by authority of the people. If Zemstvo-elected representatives should sit in the council of the empire they would be equally as spurious as representatives of the people. Neither the country nor the people are prepared for true representative government. Anarchy would take the place of government and the empire would crumble to pieces. So far as the program of the Zemstvoists is concerned I am sure neither the emperor nor the government believe in it, but that does not mean that Liberalism is to end. The policy represented by Von Plehve, in my opinion, can never return. Prince Sviatopolk-Mirsky is a courageous, sincere man and stands for a broad and liberal policy, but a constitution now is out of the question. I will not discuss what may occur in the future, but I repeat everything depends upon the war. Its outcome will determine whether there will be a crisis, and its character. Japan, I believe, would now welcome peace, and so would Russia also, but I cannot see how it is possible for them to come to terms. Therefore, the war must go on. When it ends an answer to all these questions will come."

MURDERERS ESCAPE

Hold-up Men Hold Crowd at Bay at Danville, Ill.

Danville, Ill., Nov. 28.—Frank Holycross, a bartender, was fatally shot Sunday morning in a desperate fight with three hold-up men. The men were heard planning to stop a train, and while a traveling man ran to notify the police, they entered the restaurant and the fight with Holycross followed. The bartender knocked down two of the men and the third shot him. A dozen shots were fired. The shooting attracted a crowd and the man who shot Holycross held the men at bay while his companions loaded their revolvers. The three desperadoes ran north and succeeded in escaping. It is believed that they boarded a freight train, as careful search of the country has failed to reveal their hiding place.

An Irsome Trade War.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—As soon as the new Russo-German treaty is ratified Russia expects to open negotiations with other powers. One of the most important results (doubtless will be the ending of the trade war with the United States which arose over the imposition of a countervailing duty on Russian sugar a few years ago.

The FILIGREE BALL

...By...

ANNA KATHARINE GREEN,
Author of "The Mystery of Agatha Webb,"
"Lost Man's Lane," Etc.

Copyright, 1903, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

"I answered her look with one she probably understood as little as I did hers. I had heard of this father of hers. He had been a terrible old man and had left a terrible memory behind him.

"The next day my room was changed according to her promise, but in the light of the charges I have since heard uttered against that house and the family who inhabit it I am glad that I spent one night in what, if it was not a haunted chamber, had certainly a very thrilling effect upon its occupants."

Second passage, the Italics showing where it was most heavily marked: "The house contained another room as interesting as the one I have already mentioned. It went by the name of the library, and its walls were heavily lined with books; but the family never sat there, nor was I ever fortunate enough to see it with its doors unclosed except on the occasion of the grand reception Miss Callista gave in my honor. I have a fancy for big rooms and more than once urged my hostess to tell me why this one stood neglected. But the lady was not communicative on this topic, and it was from another member of the household I learned that its precincts had been forever clouded by the unexpected death within them of one of her father's friends, a noted army officer.

"Why this should have occasioned a permanent disuse of the spot I could not understand, and as every one who conversed on this topic invariably gave the impression of saying less than the subject demanded, my curiosity soon became too much for me, and I attacked Miss Callista once again in regard to it. She gave me a quick smile, for she was always amiable, but shook her head and introduced another topic. But one night when the wind was howling in the chimneys and the sense of loneliness was even greater than usual in the great house, we drew together on the rug in front of a roaring room fire, and as the embers burned down to ashes before us Miss Callista became more communicative.

"Her heart was heavy, she told me; had been heavy for years. Perhaps some ray of comfort would reach her if she took a friend into her confidence. God knew that she needed one, especially on nights like this, when the wind woke echoes all over the house and it was hard to tell which most to fear, the sounds which came from no one knew where, or the silence which settled after."

"She trembled as she said this and instinctively drew nearer to my side so that our heads almost touched over the flickering flame from whose heat and light we sought courage. She seemed to feel grateful for this contact, and the next minute, flinging all her scruples to the wind, she began a relation of events which more or less answered my late unwelcome queries.

"The death in the library, about which her most perplexing memory hung, took place when she was a child and her father held that high governmental position which has reflected so much credit upon the family. Her father and the man who thus perished had been intimate friends. They had fought together in the war of 1812 and received the same distinguished marks of presidential approval afterward. They were both members of an important commission which brought them into diplomatic relations with England. It was while serving on this commission that the sudden break occurred which ended all intimate relations between them and created a change in her father that was equally remarked at home and abroad. What occasioned this break no one knew. Whether his great ambition had received some check through the jealousy of this so called friend—a supposition which did not seem possible, as he rose rapidly after this or on account of other causes darkly hinted at by his contemporaries, but never breaking into open gossip, he was never the same man afterward. His children, who used to rush with effusion to greet him, now shrank into corners at his step or slid behind half open doors, whence they peered with fearful interest at his tall figure, pacing in moody silence the halls of his ancestral home or sitting with frowning brows over the embers dying away on the great hearthstone of his famous library.

"Their mother, who was an invalid, did not share these terrors. The father was ever tender of her, and the only smile they ever saw on his face came with his entrance into her darkened room.

"Such were Callista Moore's first memories. Those which followed were more definite and much more startling. President Jackson, who had a high opinion of her father's ability, advanced him rapidly. Finally a position was given him which raised him into national prominence. As this had been the goal of his ambition for years, he was much gratified by this appointment, and, though his smiles came no more frequently, his frowns lightened

LILIES OF HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

In a recent interview with Mrs. Lily Langtry, she very wisely said:

"The fact that I believe in the superior force of mind over matter does not blind me to the truth that the foundation of every successful life is good health; that the key-stone to physical beauty is perfect physical health."

"A sick woman cannot be a beautiful woman, nor can she be anything but what English call a poor-spirited woman. To a great extent a woman's beauty is measured by her vitality—by her health."

"Work, Sunshine, Exercise, Water and Soap, Plain, Nourishing Food, Lots of Fresh Air, and a Happy Contented Spirit—these, as you say, 'honest and true,' is my working rule for youth, youthful spirits and youthful looks."

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman or the mother is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. Every woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make-up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a good doctor book such for instance as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps for paper-bound volume, or thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy, and addressing Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can always be relied upon to cure when everything else fails," writes Mrs. Dr. Nielsen, of 4322 Langley Avenue, Chicago, Ill. "It is a certain cure for female troubles, diseases in their worst form. I suffered for years with ulceration, intense pains and a dreadful backache, which unfitted me for my work. Finally I grew so ill I had to keep to my bed. In this extremity I used 'Favorite Prescription' for three months and then I was well. Only those who have passed through such a siege of sickness as I have will understand how much I value Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

Funeral of Mrs. Holtman.

The funeral of Mrs. H. H. Holtman, who was killed in a run-away accident Saturday, was conducted at the German Lutheran church this afternoon by Rev. Ph. Schmidt.

Large Funeral.

The funeral of Miss Daisy Hays at Pleasant Grove Sunday was one of the largest ever held at that church. About thirty went from Seymour. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. The funeral discourse by Dr. J. A. Sargent was very impressive.

Fred Stelter and family, of Seymour who came here to attend the Berzel-Stelter wedding returned to his home in Seymour yesterday evening. He was accompanied by his nephew, Clarence Rhoda.—Bedford Mail.

Apples and Pears.

I still have a lot of fine apples and pears for sale at lowest cash price. Call on me or drop a card to H. C. Beyers, Seymour, R. F. D. No. 1.

ARM TORN OFF.

Another Victim of The Corn Shredder.

Monday morning Charley Foist, a son of Randolph Foist, who lives near Scipio had his arm torn off in a corn shredder with which he was working. The shredder was at work on the farm of Frank Waldruff near Scipio. Dr. Harper was called and dressed his wounds.

DIED.

BROCKHOFF.—Christopher Brockhoff died at the home of his brother-in-law, Henry Meyer, in Hamilton township, west of Peter's Switch, Sunday morning at 6 o'clock. The cause of his death was cancer of the face. His age was 58 years, 8 months and 15 days. He had never married. Funeral Tuesday at 10 a. m. from the residence conducted by Rev. A. Egli. Burial at Riverview.

SUNDERMAN.—Mrs. Sophia Sunderman died at her home near Sauers, Monday morning, aged 52 years. She leaves two sons. Funeral at 11 a. m., Wednesday from the residence.

Another Run-away.

This afternoon while Frank Bottorff, of the firm of Bottorff Brothers, of Cortland, was at Hodapp's feed store to load some meal in his wagon, his team started to run. He was on the spring seat which was thrown off, causing him to fall to the ground. He struck on his head and for a little while was unconscious. He was carried into G. F. Pomeroy's residence and Dr. Hill was summoned.

He found that Mr. Bottorff had a few cuts and bruises on his head and face but nothing that will likely prove serious. He was soon able to get out and went to look for his team.

The horses ran north on Walnut, scattering parts of the wagon and the contents along the way. The team was caught on west Seventh street.

C. J. Allison, of Decatur, Alabama, and Mrs. Katie Neff, of Painesville, Ohio, are visiting H. J. Berkshire and family.

A Sure Thing.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not altogether true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a cure for a lung and throat troubles. Mrs. C. B. VanMetre, of Shepherdstown, W. Va., says "I had a severe case of bronchitis and for a year tried everything I heard of, but got no relief. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, whooping cough, grip, pneumonia and consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by W. F. Peter Drug Co. Trial bottles free. Regular sizes 50c, $1.00.

NO MORE CRISP BILLS.

Bank Notes Will Be Hereafter Soft and Velvety.

The days of the crisp bank note are numbered. Instead of being crisp, the money which the government bureau of engraving and printing will hereafter turn out will be soft and velvety if important experiments which are now being conducted in the presence of treasury officials for the purpose of demonstrating the advantages of a novel chemical treatment for paper prove satisfactory.

The result of the adoption of the new secret process, according to Geyer's Stationer, will be to revolutionize a portion of the work connected with the printing of the paper money of the United States. Under the new process it will take just sixty days less time to manufacture a bank note than under the present method. The chemical solution not only renders the paper soft and velvety, but it also makes it nonshrinkable. By applying it to a Japanese napkin that article becomes as soft and pliable as a tissue of silk. The chemical preparation acts as an antiseptic and preservative. When applied to old documents it seems to knit the fiber together and prevent further decay.

Under the present process of printing paper money, the paper has to be thoroughly soaked in water. While it is in this soaked condition one side of the paper is printed. The sheet is then placed in a steam room and kept under a high temperature for thirty days, the time necessary for the ink to dry. The sheet is again soaked as in the first instance and the reverse side of the bill printed. The thirty day drying process then has to be repeated. In cases where a third impression on the bill is necessary, which is required when the printing is done in two colors, the wetting and drying process has to be repeated a third time, and another month is thus consumed in its production.

Besides the delay of this process, the wetting and drying rot the fiber of the paper, and, although it is "starched" to give it the crisp appearance, the starch soon wears out, and the bill becomes limp and worn.

In printing bills on paper that has been treated by the new process no wetting is necessary. The ink loses none of its luster when applied to the paper, as under the old process, and is thoroughly dry within forty-eight hours after the printing is done.

LIFTING BY MAGNETS.

Labor and Strength Saving Devices Used in Steel Mills.

In large steel or iron mills there has been lately introduced what is known as a lifting magnet. Every one knows the common horseshoe magnet and how even a tiny one will pick up its weight. The principle has been used on a more extensive scale in the electro magnet. Magnets have been found to be great savers of time and money.

Hung at the end of cables from a crane and connected by wires with an electric generator, the magnets are dropped down upon several bars of pig iron or three or four plates of sheet iron or steel, which are lifted and carried to the place where it is intended to deposit them. There, the current being turned off, the load drops.

It is unnecessary for the metal to be lifted to be touched by hand, and naturally much time is saved. Some of these magnets will lift five tons, and when four or five sheets of metal are lifted at once by a skillful director at the crane the sheets may be dropped in separate piles as one might drop cards from the hand.

Preservation of Butter.

A member of the French National Society of Agriculture recently submitted a report on experiments made for the preservation of butter by the use of fluoride of sodium. It was shown that this substance is not hurtful if used judiciously. From four to sixteen grains in pulverulent state suffice for two pounds of butter, which it will preserve indefinitely. The fluoride can be used only in infinitesimal quantities, as more than seven or eight grains to a pound of butter render it unpalatable, but, instead of making the butter indigestible and less nutritive, when properly used it is considered an aid to digestion. Many physicians prescribe as much as six or seven grains of fluoride every twenty-four hours in order to regulate digestion.

How Odors Move.

That odors move with the air or diffuse through it like gases and do not pass through it in waves, as sounds do, or in swiftly moving particles like the radium emanations seems to be conclusively shown by recent experiments on the propagation of scents through small tubes. In such tubes there can be no general motion of the air, and the rate of travel of an odor is extremely slow. That of ammonia took over two hours to get through a tube a yard and a half long. The presence of the ammonia could be detected chemically at about the same time that its smell was noticed. It seemed to make little difference in the speed whether the tube was held horizontally or vertically or whether the odor moved up or down.

TO MAKE A FAN BAG.

Pretty Christmas Gift That Will Please a Girl.

For those who often go to theaters and parties a fan bag is indispensable and makes a most acceptable present. It can be made as dainty as possible in satin, either embroidered or painted. Some girls may like to have the bag match their gowns, which is a charming, but, alas, an expensive fancy, one not always easy to carry out in a Christmas gift. Black satin is a good material for theater fan bags and forms the background for much elaboration.

Two sides of the fan bag are cut in satin alike as to size, the silk lining also corresponding. The width of the bag is six inches at the top and three at the end. Of course the length varies a little, according to the size of the fan.

FAN BAG.

A pretty idea is to embroider the monogram of the recipient on one side of the bag, leaving the other to be decorated with a long trailing design.

One fan bag in white satin which was a wedding gift suggested us when the bridal gown became a ball dress. The design was a spray of myrtle with half opened buds and flowers.

A twisted ribbon confined three plumes which were outlined in Japanese gold thread and the softer parts worked in filloes.

The ribbons on the bag repeated the myrtle green in the bows, and the long ribbons were white satin. It was an extremely dainty affair.

Another dainty bag is of black satin covered with gorgeous hued butterflies. Half a yard of satin or silk will make a bag, while three yards of ribbon are required, two lengths of six inches each being necessary for running the draw strings in. The amount of material is not large, and in these days of lovely remnants a small sum will suffice to make a really exquisite bag.

GIFT FOR A CHILD.

Pretty Doll of Crinkled Paper and How to Make It.

A doll dressed in crinkled paper is a pretty gift for a child. If the garments are to be put on and taken off the paper must have bands of fine elastic at waist and neck, and tie with ribbons to match the paper.

The simplest method of dressing the doll otherwise is to cut a length of crinkled paper to reach from chin to the doll's feet; run the neck up with silk, and make it join at the back. Cut holes for arms very neatly, and sew up the skirt where it joins. Sew it on. Then sew in frilly or bishop sleeves, joining them under the arms. Next make a very full ballet skirt, and sew this on also, hiding the joins with a sash. Add a smart bonnet or hat, and the doll is complete.

Gift For a Bachelor.

The newest chair cushion is heart shaped, and it is a handsome Christmas gift for a bachelor. The pattern is quite easy to cut. Fold a piece of newspaper measuring eighteen inches by seventeen inches in half lengthwise. A small plate may be laid on this folded paper at the top and traced round to act as a guide for the shape of the two sides, which must not come in to the point, but in a curved line. One pretty cushion is covered with pink china silk and edged with a frill of the same. It is ornamented with an applique design in cretonne of red and pink poppies.

The applique must be done first. For this cut out a piece of cretonne and tack it in the center of the heart shaped piece of silk, which should first be lined. Then buttonhole all around with floss silk.

A Present For Grandmother

A pretty spectacle case is quite easy to contrive if the maker of Christmas gifts is possessed of nimble fingers and a little patience. Here cardboard must be called into requisition, and two good sized oval pieces cut, which should then be neatly covered with black velvet, lined with colored silk and afterward joined together, the outer edge being finished with a little narrow gold cord.

Until December 1st.

The time will be extended and you will have until then to have your eyesight troubles cared for. Mr. Harsh goes to Indianapolis on the first—Mr. and Mrs. Harsh.

NICELY LOCATED.

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Jacka Pleased With Southern California.

In a letter to the publishers of the REPUBLICAN Dr. E. C. Jacka, former pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, writes as follows of his new home in Southern California:

"Though we have been nearly two months in California we have not forgotten the REPUBLICAN nor our many friends in Seymour, but here we have found many new friends, and feel very much at home. One week after we came the church and citizens gave us a grand reception, several hundred being present and filled our larder with canned fruits.

Colton is a small city of twenty-five hundred, but it has all city conveniences: first class water system, and pure water, from artesian wells, electric lights, gas and a good sewerage system. We have three trans-continental lines of railroad, the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, and the new Salt Lake and Los Angeles, roads, besides an electric line between here and San Bernardino and Redlands. Colton is three miles from San Bernardino, eight from Redlands and six from Riverside. We are situated right in the center of the best orange belt in California.

Our church building, is a small frame structure, but very neat, a good pipe organ, and no trouble about a boy to blow it. Have a first class choir, pay our leader and organist, so they have no excuse for not being present. We have large congregations for a small church and a small preacher.

Have a neat manse of eight rooms lighted with electricity and containing gas for cooking and all modern improvements. I mention this that you may know that the "Wild and Woolly West" is still ahead, even when it comes to voting for president. For while Hoosierdom did fine, fifty thousand and better than Judge Montgomery told me he thought it would do, California went forty thousand better.

Do you hear of any democrats in Seymour now? Can't find any out this way.

We have another good thing out here. All our streets and public roads are oiled with petroleum, which, when packed, makes as good a street as asphalt, which it resembles. So our roads are fine and free from dust.

This is a center for the packing of oranges for the Eastern market. There are several large packing houses, other industries, cement works, marble quarries and a large steam flour mill. The town is growing, new houses are going up on every side.

The weather has been delightful. We have had no rain yet this fall, and only two or three cloudy days since we came. Our church and manse are a bower of shade; pepper trees, fig trees, olive, lemon and orange, besides other shade, and ornamental trees add beauty and comfort to our home.

I hope before this the Baptists and Presbyterians have secured pastors, who will do better than Martin or Jacka did.

Colton, California. E. C. JACKA.

Noted Physicians of Europe Have Prescribed Cod Liver Oil.

As the Greatest Curative Agent and Strength Creator Known to Medicine.

But they have also admitted that owing to the vile, nauseating grease which it contained, and which had no curative value whatever, it was impossible for patients to take into their systems enough to obtain the best results.

Therefore, the discovery of two French chemists how to get the benefit of the valuable curative elements of the Cod's liver without the oil was hailed with delight by physicians the world over. These Frenchmen found that the medicinal curatives could be separated from the grease and oil, and produced in a concentrated form delicious to the taste and acceptable to the weakest stomach. Thus was created Vinol which is sold by the W. F. Peter Drug Co., on a positive guarantee to return money whenever it fails to do all they claim for it.

W. F. Peter Co. say that Vinol they offer the people of Seymour cod liver oil medicine acknowledged by physicians everywhere as the greatest curative agent and strength creator known to medicine, and they have never sold anything in their store equal to Vinol to build up and strengthen old people, weak women and children, and people who are run down, tired, nervous and debilitated.

W. F. Peter Drug Co. also guarantee that Vinol will strengthen the digestive organs, make rich, red blood, cure chronic colds, coughs and bronchial troubles, and restore the system to a healthy, robust condition quicker than any other medicine.

Vinol is not a patent medicine, and you know what you are taking, simply a delicious cod liver oil preparation with everything which it contains printed on the bottle. Try Vinol on our guarantee to return money if it fails. W. F. Peter Drug Co.

Rates Unchanged.

The impression that lower rates would prevail to St. Louis before the close of the Exposition has been entirely dispelled by receipt of information by local agents that no further reduction would be made.

Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses and heals the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and cures catarrh easily and pleasantly. Cold in the head vanishes quickly. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Att'y at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

HONOR FOR DEWEY

American Naval Hero Likely to be High Commissioner.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Gratified by the spirit which has animated the contracting parties in agreeing to entrust to a commission the ascertainment of the questions of fact connected with the North Sea incident, the United States government will cordially cooperate in the naming of the commission by the designation of one of its high naval officers as a member of that body. The outcome is especially pleasing to the administration, following as it does so closely on President Roosevelt's invitation to the powers of the world for a second Hague conference. The popular impression has been all along that Admiral George Dewey, the ranking officer in the American navy would be asked to be the American representative on the commission, although other names also have been mentioned in connection with the appointment. A decision will be reached promptly after the formal invitation has been received from the Russian and British governments as to who shall be designated.

SUICIDE IN PRISON

Much-Wanted and Mysterious German Dies at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Nov. 28.—A man believed to be prominently connected in Germany committed suicide by hanging himself in his cell at the central police station here Sunday. He was registered as Max Rickhardt, aged twenty-seven, Germany, at the police headquarters. As he registered at three hotels here under different names and under other names in St. Louis and elsewhere throughout the country, he was called "The German Prince of many aliases." He was tall, fine looking and faultlessly dressed. Sunday he was moaning about "Liddle" and repeatedly said: "She will never know what became of me," etc. Letters were found addressed to Liddle Lang, Reichenbach, Saxony, Germany, and he repeatedly said she was waiting there for his return. He prayed she would never hear of his downfall. He was arrested last Tuesday at the Grand Hotel, where he had registered as "Clemen Christian Lauter," and charged with being a hotel thief.

Col. Andrew J. Neff.

Kansas City, Nov. 28.—Col. Andrew J. Neff, of this city, father of Mayor J. H. Neff, died Sunday at San Antonio, Tex., where he had gone for his health, aged seventy-nine years. He was formerly prominent in Indiana Republican politics and had a distinguished war record. In 1856 he was elected representative in the Indiana legislature from Blackford county. On the outbreak of the civil war he assisted in the organization of the Eighty-fourth Indiana volunteers, was commissioned major, was acting colonel of the regiment when it was mustered out, and was breveted brigadier-general for meritorious conduct. In 1872 he was elected a member of the Indiana state senate.

Taft Reaches Panama.

Panama, Nov. 28.—Secretary Taft and party arrived at Colon Sunday morning on board the United States cruiser Columbia. Mr. Taft was received on shore by Vice President Arceizena and other Panama officials, Gen. Davis, commander of the canal zone, and Minister Barrett. After a conference with the American congressional delegation Mr. Taft went by a special train to Panama, where he was officially received by a command quartered at the residence of Mr. Wallace, chief engineer in charge of construction of the Panama canal. He was received by President Amador and the Panama cabinet at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

No Arrests Yet Made.

Cincinnati, Nov. 28.—The coroner has made known his verdict in the case of Alma Steingeweg, the telephone girl, who was found dead Nov. 2 near Spring Grove cemetery. He finds the cause death to be "fracture of skull caused by a blow on the head with a blunt instrument, inflicted by some unknown fiend. The testimony also shows that the deceased was a victim of criminal assault." This opposes the theory held for some time that death was caused by a street car accident. No arrest for this murder has yet been made.

NAGGING PAINS

Newport News, Va., July 22, 1903.
Last summer while recovering from illness of fever, I had a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniments and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S. S. S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken three bottles I felt a great deal better, and I still continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than for years, and I cheerfully recommend S. S. S. to any one suffering from Rheumatism.

Assassinated by Political Enemy.
Albuquerque, N. M., Nov. 28.—News has reached here of the assassination of Col. R. Francisco Chaves, probably the best known Republican politician in New Mexico, at Pinos Wells, Torrance county. Col. Chaves was the guest of a friend, and while they were eating supper a shot was fired through a window and Chaves fell from his chair dead. People here believe that the assassination was the work of some political enemy.

Injuries Terminated Fatally.
Dunkirk, Ind., Nov. 28.—Robert Borton, twenty-two, a young farmer, whose hand was badly injured in a corn shredder a few days ago, is dead. A sad incident of the death is that Borton was to have been married Christmas day to Miss Lola Johnegan, of near Milgrove.

Deadly Explosion of Gas.
New York, Nov. 28.—One man is dead, three are in a hospital suffering from burns and lacerations, and several others are less seriously hurt as the result of an explosion early Sunday in the generating house of the Consolidated Gas company's plant.

Another Charge Against Weber.
Auburn, Cal., Nov. 28.—The money, amounting to $6,000, of which the Placer County bank was robbed last May, has been found in a cow shed on the Weber place. The money was buried in an old five-pound lard can. Adolph Weber, who is under arrest on the charge of murdering his parents, brother and sister, has been formally charged with also having held up the bank.

Ayrshires Are Good Foragers.
Governor C. J. Bell of Vermont is a practical dairy farmer and keeps a large herd of Ayrshires for profit, says American Cultivator. As compared with the Holsteins, Governor Bell thinks the Ayrshires are more suitable for his conditions, because they can more easily forage for a living on the rough hillsides. His cattle are fed ensilage and dry fodder daily during the winter, care being taken not to feed the ensilage just before milking in order to avoid tainting the milk. The favorite grain is gluten and middlings, with a little cornmeal. Animals out of condition are given a little salt daily. His herd includes a number of heifers and partially dry cows and averages more than a can of eight and a half quarts per animal daily.

NEEDED REFORMS

Legislature Will Be Asked to Safeguard State's Food Supply.

A HEALTH LABORATORY

Where Proper Tests May Be Made Will Be Among the Things Sought by the Health Board.

The Need For a Home For Consumptives Is Shown by Important Statistics.

Indianapolis, Nov. 28.—The fight for a health laboratory for this state, where analyses of foods and other articles sold in the state to determine their purity can be made is certain to be renewed before the coming legislature. The state board of health has been fighting for four years to secure the passage of a bill authorizing the establishment of such a laboratory, and it has great hopes of securing the necessary appropriation now.

A home for consumptives is another reform for which a fight will be inaugurated at the coming session. Dr. Hurty, secretary of the board, is an enthusiast on this subject and through the newspapers and by means of pamphlets and the monthly health bulletin he has been supplying the people with facts regarding consumption in Indiana in the hope of bringing the legislators to see that the hospital as well as the laboratory is really needed. As a matter of fact the statistics comparing the death rate from consumption in Indiana with the ravages of the dread disease in states having the hospital and laboratories show that the rate here is higher. Backed by these figures, Dr. Hurty is hopeful of being able to convince the legislators of the need for the two reforms.

JAIL TOO CROWDED

Two of the Murder Suspects Removed From Hartford City Prison.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 28.—Because of threats that have been made against the lives of Otto and William Cook, two of the prisoners confined in the Blackford county jail and indicted for the murder of Edward Sanderson, whose body was found Oct. 31 in a gravel pit east of the city, Judge Vaughn issued an order for their removal to the Ellettsville jail. Other reasons for the change are the crowded condition of the jail here, there being ten prisoners confined in the bastille, all on criminal charges, and the fact that at times the Cooks are belligerent and have several times threatened other prisoners.

Will Cook attacked Dell Farnsworth, who is charged with grand larceny, and gave him a terrible beating. The trouble almost caused a riot among the prisoners and Judge Vaughn has thought fit to have the Cooks removed.

Will Try Him in Indiana.

Indianapolis, Nov. 28.—Gov. Durbin refused to honor the requisition issued by the governor of Michigan, asking that Patrick Henry Davis, alias Red Austin, alias C. Woodruff, alias Thomas Clark, who was recently arrested at South Bend charged with trying to work a big brick scheme, be returned to Michigan to be tried on a similar charge. Davis is the man for whom a requisition was issued by the governor of Connecticut about a week ago. The governor refused to honor that requisition, thinking it best that Davis be tried for the game he is alleged to have been guilty of working in Indiana. This is the reason that he refused the Michigan requisition also.

Negro Quickly Sentenced.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 28.—Trembling with fear of mob violence, James Holden, twenty-five, a negro, who was arrested in a woods near here on suspicion of having attempted to assault little Fern Hinkle, eleven, of this city, confessed his guilt, was secretly sentenced to from two to fourteen years in the reformatory and was spirited away from the city, the public knowing nothing of the proceedings until Holden was safely within the walls of the Jeffersonville reformatory.

Shock Resulted in Death.

Fowler, Ind., Nov. 28.—While attempting to clamber on the rear of a closed carriage, Everett Hazelbaker, eleven, lost his footing and his leg slipped between the spokes of the hind wheel, being wound round the axle and crushed. It was necessary to remove the wheel before the leg could be released and in the haste the boy's leg was wrenched off at the knee. Physicians were immediately summoned, but the shock was so great that the boy died in a few hours.

White Mother Was Awful.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 28.—While her mother was away from home, eleven-year-old May Williams, living southeast of the city, accidentally caught her clothes on fire from a stove and was fatally burned. She died in terrible agony.

Pierced by Ind., Nov. 28.—Coroner

Thomas Parks, after completing the inquiry into the killing of Mrs. Essie Darling by her husband, Clifford Darling, last Thursday, has returned a verdict charging Darling with murder in the first degree.
